Published on United States Botanic Garden (https://m.usbg.gov)

Plant Botanical Name:

Coffea cahephora

Plant Sub Species or Variety:

'Robusta'

USBG Plant Location:

Conservatory

Conservatory Room Location:

Garden Court

Coffee is a favorite beverages on every continent and is one of the largest international commodities. Coffea cahephora 'Robusta' coffee is native to the fo today it is grown throughout Asia and Africa. Coffea arabica makes up the majority of cultivated coffee and is considered of finer quality. While it is native t much of South America and Asia. Conservation work in the native habitats is being carried out on both of these economically important plants.

Source URL: https://m.usbg.gov/plants/coffee-tree