

As a museum with a living collection, our exhibits, displays and plants are always changing. No two visits are exactly alike!

To get a feel for what you might see when you come visit the U.S. Botanic Garden, we encourage you take our virtual tour. You'll get a peek at our Conservatory and Bartholdi Park, but the plant displays and exhibits are likely to be different each time you come.

We hope you enjoy the virtual tour, but we invite you to come see it all in person for the real experience!
